Install Fastmail on your Mac

Download the native macOS app and set it up in about two minutes. No technical know-how required — just follow the steps below.

Quick Steps

- 1 In your browser, go to `fastmail.com/download`.
- 2 Under Desktop, click Download next to macOS (Apple Silicon) for a newer Mac, or macOS (Intel) for an older one.
- 3 Open your Downloads folder and double-click the .zip to expand it into `Fastmail.app`.
- 4 Drag `Fastmail.app` into your Applications folder.
- 5 Open Fastmail from Applications (or Launchpad) and sign in.

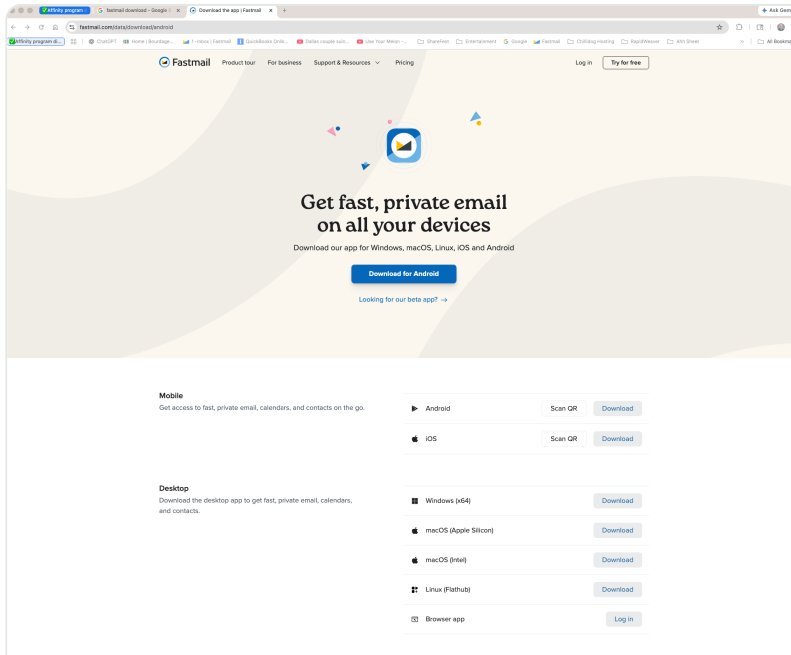

! The macOS download is a .zip, not a .dmg.

There's no disk image to mount — just unzip the file and drag the app into Applications.

Illustrated Walkthrough

1 Open the FastMail download page

Open your web browser and visit `fastmail.com/download`. Scroll to the Desktop section — you'll see download buttons for macOS (Apple Silicon), macOS (Intel), Windows, and Linux.

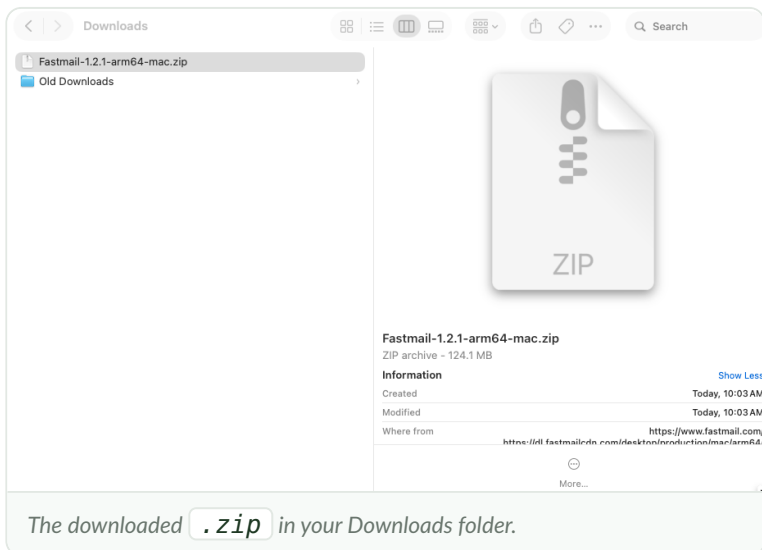

The Fastmail download page. Look in the Desktop list for the two macOS options.

💡 Which one do I pick — Apple Silicon or Intel?

Click the Apple menu in the top-left corner, then About This Mac. If it says Apple M1/M2/M3/M4, choose Apple Silicon. If it says Intel, choose Intel.

2 Download the app

Click the matching Download button. A file named something like `Fastmail-1.2.1-arm64-mac.zip` (about 120 MB) saves to your Downloads folder.

3 Unzip to get Fastmail.app

Double-click the .zip file. macOS expands it and a new item, `Fastmail.app`, appears right next to it in Downloads.

4 Move Fastmail into Applications

Drag `Fastmail.app` from Downloads into your Applications folder. This is what “installs” the app so it lives with all your other programs.

5 Open Fastmail and sign in

Open your Applications folder (or Launchpad) and double-click Fastmail. The first time, macOS may ask you to confirm you want to open it — click Open. Then sign in with your Fastmail email and password.

➤ Signing in is covered separately.

See the Signing In guide for step-by-step sign-in via the app or a web browser.
