Install Fastmail on Windows

Download the native Windows app and set it up in about two minutes. No technical know-how required — just follow the steps below.

Quick Steps

- 1 In your browser, go to `fastmail.com/download`.
- 2 Under Desktop, click Download next to Windows (x64).
- 3 Open your Downloads and double-click the installer (`Fastmail-Setup.exe`) to run it.
- 4 Choose who to install it for, then click Install (approve the admin prompt if asked).
- 5 Leave Run Fastmail ticked, click Finish, and sign in.

! Windows security prompts are normal here.

If you see a blue “Windows protected your PC” screen, click More info → Run anyway. If a User Account Control box asks for permission, click Yes. Both are expected for any downloaded app.

Illustrated Walkthrough

1 Open the FastMail download page

Open your web browser and visit `fastmail.com/download`. Scroll to the Desktop section — you'll see download buttons for Windows, macOS, and Linux.

💡 Just pick Windows (x64).

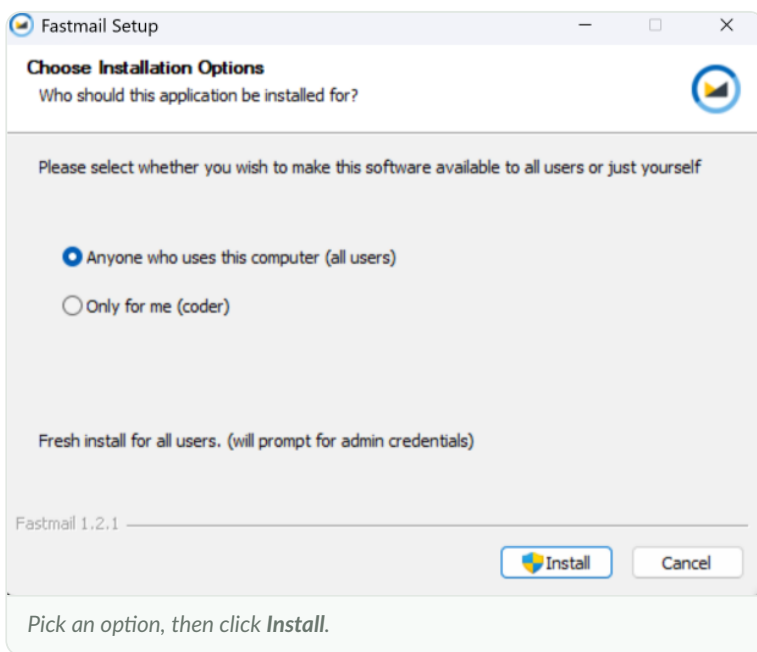

Virtually every modern Windows 11 PC is 64-bit, so Windows (x64) is the right choice. There's nothing else to figure out.

2 Download and run the installer

Click Download next to Windows (x64). An installer file (something like `Fastmail-Setup.exe`) saves to your Downloads folder — you'll usually see it in the bar at the top of your browser too. Double-click it to start the installer.

3 Choose who to install it for

The installer asks who should be able to use Fastmail on this PC. Make your choice, then click Install.

💡 All users vs. just me?

Anyone who uses this computer installs it for everyone and needs admin permission (you'll get the Yes prompt). Only for me installs just for your account with no admin needed. Either is fine — pick what suits you.

4 Finish the installation

After a few seconds you'll see “Completing Fastmail Setup”. Leave Run Fastmail ticked and click Finish — Fastmail opens automatically.

5 Open Fastmail and sign in

Fastmail launches on its own after you click Finish. Next time, open it from the Start menu (search “Fastmail”) or its desktop shortcut. Then sign in with your Fastmail email and password.

🔗 Signing in is covered separately.

See the Signing In guide for step-by-step sign-in via the app or a web browser.
